

Business Briefs for April 6, 2008

PAR luncheon

The Public Affairs Research Council will hold its 2008 annual conference and luncheon at 10 a.m. April 25 at the Holiday Inn-Select on Constitution Avenue.

John Harwood, chief Washington correspondent for CNBC and political writer for The New York Times, will be the luncheon speaker, presenting “What Makes the 2008 Election so Different?”

The morning session of the conference will feature a panel discussion on the major issues emerging in the 2008 legislative session.

The half-day conference is open to the public. The cost is $85 per person, $75 for PAR members.

For more information or to register, write PAR at P.O. Box 14776, Baton Rouge, LA 70898-4776, call (225) 926-8414, fax (225) 926-8417 or visit PAR’s Web site at www.la-par.org.